Hongkong, July 20ml, 1873.

ATTENTION has of late been called to the well known grievance in regard to the defective interpreting in the Supreme Court and in the Police Courts. The subject is by no means a new one, but it ought not to be allowed to pass without notice, whenever public aftention is directed prominently to it. It seems, however, to be the unfortunate fate of Hongkong that certain classes of evils are by custom allowed to go on without remedy, and appears to be one, although the difficulty at pointed out.

The interpreting in the Courts is often -perfectly wide of the actual questions which are put. At times they are paraphrased with and spears. The house where the fire occurred * an amazing amount of circumlocution—a is rented by Messrs. Wm. Pustau & Co.'s question of three words, requiring a simple | compradore. answer "yea" or "nay," affording scope for a good half an hour's conversation between the interpreter and the witness, while on the other hand an answer of considerable length is frequently rendered in half a dozen words.]

It is, of course, obvious that in such a case a literal translation has not been made-a feat which is often impossible, and which it to be performed. But it very frequently happens that in this paraphrasing process, the question or answer, is very much altered | ing $923.47 brought forward from the previous in appearance, and there has been proof of late that this goes much farther than has a dividend of $3 (Three Dollars) a chare, which been generally imagined. It would, no doubt, be an impossibility to procure interpreters so thoroughly conversant with both Chinese and English, that there might not at times be a necessity for paraphrasing instead of literally translating. Occasionally, even, the actual sense is better rendered by this course than by a literal translation. But, it is obvious that there ought to be perfect security to the Court that this process is conducted with accuracy, a security which unfortunately is very inadequately possessed in any of the Courts at the present time. As regards the Supreme Court, we do not wish to detract in any way from | Chater and O. H. Burrows retire, but are the gentleman whose polyglot attainments have long been the subject of wonder on the part of some, and of scepticism on the part of others. He has for a lengthened period performed very difficult duties with more than the efficiency that can be expected of anyone who is asked to do what it must be beyond the powers of one man to accomplish thoroughly. It would require something more than a Julien or a MAX. MULLER to beable to interpret in the Canton Dialect, the Hakkah Dialect, in Portuguese, Hindostance, &c., &c., all which the Supreme Court Interpreter is supposed to accomplish with perfect efficiency and accuracy. It is not to be wondered at that at times difficulties arise, and it must often be obvious even to those who are not acquainted with Chinese, that in the case of witnesses is considerable difficulty in carrying on the interpretation in anything like a clear way.

That this is the case is certainly no remen of common sense would be fully prepared ed witness to immo and property the Tung-wa informers. to find. He had his informer at terms, which are often barely understood in well organised system to attain this result; and the best way in which it could be done has been often suggested, but hitherto has not been acted upon. The Courts ought to have a European of good education and well acquainted with both the Hakkah and Punti dialects to sit in the Court, and watch the translation, so as to be ready to clear up didefects which may exist. This plan was suggested long ago in these columns, and we notice that a similar suggestion has been made by our evening contemporary, in an article in which it recently very forcibly directed attention to this subject. The plan is one, indeed, which must commend itself to all FOREIGN SETTLEMENTS OF who are acquainted with the nature of interpreting into Chinese, and vice versa. A Chinaman must be made use of in order to act as month-piece, if we wish to have the questions accurately conveyed to a native, as scarcely any foreigner can be confident that in baving to translate a great deal of miscellaneous matter he may not fall into some errors of pronunciation or idiom, which may make what he says either obscure or unintelligible —but where Chinese interpreters are thus employed, it is necessary that there should be a European in Court sufficiently acquainted with Chinese to act as a check upon him, and particularly to call the attention of the Court to any apparent misrendering of tech-

It will, of course, he said that this would Colony would not grudge the salaries of two thoroughly efficient men for this purpose. A sum of about £800 to £1,000 a year for each would be no doubt sufficient to obtain good and reliable men, and, indeed, such services might be secured more cheaply, as the gentlemen deputed. to perform this duty should not be available in other Departments. It is hardly necessary to add that no better practice could possibly be had, by anyone wishing to perfect himself in speaking, than constantly watching interpretation in the Courts—so that the plan would not only meet a great want in itself, but would be the means of ultimately attaining a degree of efficiency in interpretation which could probably be arrived at in no other

-The Acting French Consul received the following telegram from Saigon yesterday

"The Directour of the Interior to the French Consul at Hongkong. "Vessels coming from Bangkok and Singapore are put in quarantine. All vessels entering the river must anchor at Cangiou. Inform the Chamber of Commerce."

At 1.30 a.m. yesterday, a true alarm of fire was given at the Central Police station, it having been discovered that a fire had broken out at No. 7, Woo-on-les lune, in the upper floor. It is not as yet known how the fire originated. However, in spite of the alarm, which was given very vigorously, the fire had spread through the house, and the whole was in a blaze before the engines could be brought into use, and it was not till the fire had burnt itself out that a copious supply of water was poured on to the embers, and prevented any further spread of the five. The Hon. P. Ryrie, Mesers. Tonnooby and. McLeod, and several other gentlemen belonging to firms, were immediately on the spot, and did good service. It is to be also noticed that one or two helmeted gentlemen arrived just as preparations were being made by the engines to leave : doubtless the cry of wolf, and there being no wolf, the night previous, was the cause of this. OCEAN RACING.

The subjoined somewhat amusing correspond nce has appeared in Shanghai:---"If ever thou hast felt for others' pain." "If ever when they wept, hust wept again," "If ever on thine eyelid stood the tear " "Which Pity has engendered, drop one here."

(To the Editor of the North-China Daily News.) Dear Sir,-This would be a fitting epitaph to the last effusion on the subject of Ocean Racing, addressed to the Secretary of Lloyd's.

of unterior transactions which they may receive agents signatures for innumerable offices, most The case in which Inspector Goir charged by telegraph, to pay the Chinese merchant's of which it may be had no risk at all on the the signature of the chief Insurance office in Obina, the one that is reputed to do more business than half the others put together—the North-China Insurance Company; and of this everyone who respects that office must be glad. Altogether the proceeding of the Hongkong Insurance Offices is about as importment as the whole affair has been throughout. A Committee of a public body cannot be too cautious how they interfere with private interests, and most certainly the Chairman's letter to Hankow oversteps the boundary of a Chamber's duty even more than that of the Hongkong Insurance Offices, who have written to Lloyd's regarding matters which, if they required dealing with sat all, good taste should have dictated that the letter rigarding them should, on the face of it, bear the acquiescence of the principal insu rance office in China, and been something more than a plagiarism of the Shanghai Chamber's correspondence, which met with almost noiversal disapproval, and entirely failed in subetantiating any of its arguments. I am, dear sir,

(To the Editor of the North-China Daily News.) Sir,-If it is permissible to criticise so bombastic a critic as your correspondent with the long Latin signature, I would respectfully suggest that a little more care might advantageously be bestowed upon his English. His thoughts are deep, but his style is not clear, nor is his syntax always perfect. Hence a difficulty is experienced in following him through the intrioscies of his argument, and even his percration is know quite enough to say that the project by no means so lucid as could be wished. It

Whatever other meaning may lie concealed in this somewhat involved sentence, there can be no doubt that the writer intends to lay down the dostrine that it is bad laste for the various insurance companies in China to take any action in their own behalf without the acguiescence of the "North-China." Not questioning for an instant the right of your correspondent to establish a canon of taste—his own letter being itself a model—I still think it would be a mistake for the other insurance companies to surrender entirely their individuality, and for their Committees of Management to content themselves with merely registering the decrees of the gigantic Company "which does more business than half of them put together." Something might indeed be said on the score of economy in favour of sabjecting the small fry to the supreme direction of the North-Ohina, but so long as the forms of separate management are kept up, it is hard to expect the various Companies to abdicate their functions, even for the sake of good taate. Fully endorsing your correspondent's views as to the desirability of public bodies exercising caution in interfering with private interests, the question remains whether the private intorests of the "Canton," " Union," and other Instruce Companies are not entitled to equal consideration with those of the P. & O. Company, and it is not very clear to my mind why the self-assertion of the Insurance Companies in` particular should be deemed an "imper-

But in his condemnation of the action of the Hongsong Insurance Companies, your correspondent claims to speak in the name of the public generally, and the public will probably in the main agree with him. The Hongkong offices have sent ten thousands miles for a remedy which they hold in their own hands. It they are sincere in thinking that a sliding scale of freight and other incentives to ocean racing endanger a steamer, consistency would seem to require them to refuse to insure by any steamer influenced by such temptations, or at least to exact a higher permium for that class of risks. Your correspondent seems to doubt whether the protesting offices have any interest in the Venetia or any other steamer from Hankow, in which case their letter to But assuming for the purpose of argument that Venetia and Agamemnon, at what rates of premium have these risks respectively been taken? Is there a differential rate? If so, is leachess the temptation of a sliding scale of enjoying the privilege of a low rate of insurance which is denied to her rival. Should this prove to be the fact, the Committee of Lloyd's will have a more telling reply to the Hongkong Insurance Offices than any suggested by your correspondent.

In a mere summary it is impossible to collect minor points. But it is yet worthy of notice that Major Dease confirmed the Claimant's statement as to his having skinned cats at On London.-Stonyhurst, and that Serjeant Owen more or less contradicted Colonel Polhill Turner's evidence, and declared that on the occasion to which so much reference has been made, the Captain's troop was in some confusion. "The officers," said he, "got us into a mess, and could not get us square again, and we had to suffer for it, and got extra drill."

PRINCE NAPOLEON'S RETURN TO

FRANCE. (Journal des Débats-Paris, June 9th.) Prince Napoleon has just returned to France, and the promptitule with which he has done so is a significant act of homage on his part to the new Government. The Prince was, under the reign of M. Thière, the object of an arbitrary measure of which we fully approved, but which was severely consured by the parties now represented in the Government. It is only just that reparation should be given him by those very persons who so energetically demanded it for him, and Prince Napoleon cannut think that the men who so eloquently defended in his person the rights of the citizen should be capable of now interfering with his free exercise of it. For our part, we have never denied the strict right of Prince Napoleon, or o any other member of the Imperial family, to return to France. We have openly admitted that the administrative measure of which he was the object was outside the common law, but that it was adopted against a person who was himself outside the common law. What we have said, and what we maintain, is that the law protects only its own subjects, and that those for whom only exceptional rights are created must accept their burdens as well as their advantages. King Louis Philippe, who was, however, a strict observer of legality broke the law when he had Prince Louis Bonaparte removed from the Strasburg prison in order to save him from the hands of justice; and it was the cause of the acquittal of the other prisoners that the principal culprit had been saved from the law. . When the abrogation of the laws of exile against the Bourbons / 114 E Undersigned having been appoint was proposed in the present Assembly, M Thiers made reservations which every one understood. He said then, "I thought that I could accept the proposed measure on condition that I, being intrusted with the duty of maintaining order in the country, should reserve the right of acting against all if I should think France threatened, subject to bringing the mutter immediately before the Assembly." We say that this language at a understood, and it was, indeed, clear that it did not aim at.

the princes of the house of Hermion. In the then etate of legislation the Bonapartes could legally-return to France, and the Bourbons could not. This was very well explained by M Butbie, now a minister, when he said "that the law of 1848 which had put an end to the exile haby Bonaparte Pfinces being still in force, the members of that family could now cross the frontier without eucountering any legal obstacle." The eloquent M. Batbie added :laws of exile against the Bourbons would be to maintain an inexplicable inequality between the old reigning families." Now, as M. Depeyre, one of the most ardent members of viz: the majority, said, no less logically and Detached & semi-detached Dwelleloquently, the law of decheance voted at Bordeaux does not constitute the law of text is rigorously necessary. titled to come and live at Paris in a house in INOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All toe new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous ob jectain machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them; are Fungus, 20 bags, at $39.00, by Tye-lee to here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming ever-Dried Lily Flowers, 10 bags, at $15.60, by cises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not ed vast margins and vacant spaces which have Agents for the above Company, are pre- heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English | PORTER. words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grummars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely re-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference Agents the Queen Insurance Company, to its pages enables a person who underatanda English to communicate effectively nese.
